 DEFINITION: A street rod is a passenger car or truck manufactured before 1949 that has been modified for style, safety, and reliability. They are built for comfort and to be driven long distances and generally feature a mix of current and obsolete technologies. A street rod will feature techniques from several other car building subsets but do not have a specific identity like a Kustom or a Gasser would. Consider this a guide to common street rods and a street rod glossary of terms.
